

our Titus Landing families

Meet Adour & Asha

My family has lived in Canada for the last 30 years. We fled from our homeland, Somalia, because of the Civil War, and we wanted a better place to raise our family. We have a daughter, Hafas, who is incredibly passionate about the creative side of life. She spends a lot of her time working on intricate pieces of art. My son, Bilal, loves sports, especially basketball and football. Both my children have hobbies into which they have a lot of passion, which warms my heart.

The main thing I'm looking forward to with our new home is security and cleanliness. Our current home is riddled with mold in the kitchen, washrooms, and bedrooms. We have an infestation of bedbugs and cockroaches, and unfortunately, our neighborhood isn't very safe. It's no longer a place we want to stay.

We ultimately joined the Habitat Homeownership Program because we truly thought it was the best opportunity for affordable housing. I first heard about this organization through a friend. They had gone through the system and shared their experience with me, and I didn't hesitate before applying. This will change my family's life for the better. We can get the chance to finally own a home, a place we can grow and live a safe and stable life. This will also be the first time we've lived in an actual house – it's such an amazing thing to look forward to.
